

Creating a Tower of Herbs

Save space with vertical gardening! This can also be done with annuals.

1. Select at least 3 different sized pots with drainage holes.

* Leave enough space between each herb to give them room to grow.

Soon you will have a tower overflowing with delicious herbs!

5. Choose a more upright growing, or drought-tolerant plant for the top container. Lavender and rosemary are great choices.

4. Place the next largest pot and plant your herbs along the edge.

3. Start with the largest pot. Plant along the edges of the container.

2. Use a metal stake to secure the pots in the ground, if needed. Thread the stake through the drainage holes. For smaller towers, you can use overturned pots to set each new layer on.
